ENTERPRISE RISK MANAGEMENT

Integrating Risk Management
Into Strategic Planning

As your organization undertakes strategic planning towards the future of the business, it is imperative that consideration is given to the impact of risks on these plans and the entire strategic planning process.

There are three distinct risk points for you to consider in your strategic planning process:

- i. Risks that inform development of your strategic plan - The risks from the internal and external environment that help determine which goals and objectives to choose in the first place
- ii. Risks to the implementation of your strategic plan - The risks that may prevent you from achieving the goals and objectives defined in your plan
- iii. Risks generated from implementing your strategic plan - The new risks created by implementing the strategy itself, or the unintended consequences of success

Oftentimes, the strategic planning process only considers point (i) of the three above. In instances where points (ii) and (iii) are missed out, as it happens in most strategy planning sessions, the likelihood of the resulting strategy failing to meet intended objectives is greatly heightened due to the adverse effects of unidentified and uncontrolled risks.

Your organization can address this by;

- i. Providing training for your board and management team in enterprise risk management to enable them integrate risk management appropriately in strategic planning.
- ii. Engaging risk management focused consultants in your strategic planning process to assist with risk management integration in the process.

OAK Interlink can provide these services for your organisation and we would love the opportunity to make a presentation to your organization on how risk management can help assure that your business continues to deliver value to its stakeholders year in year out.

PROJECT MANAGEMENT & MANPOWER SUPPLY

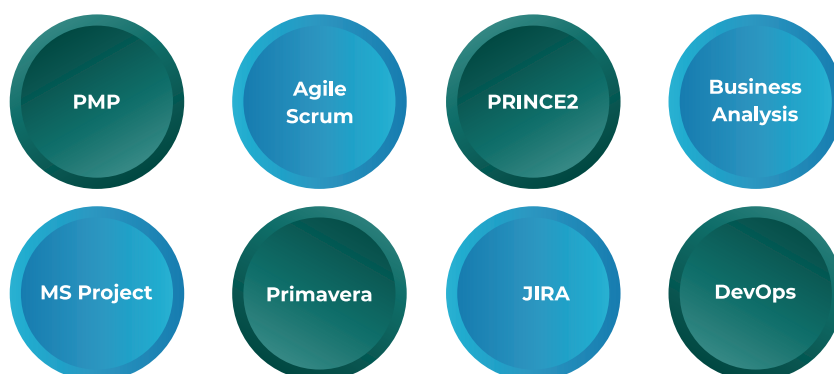

Projects are one-off pieces of work that are completed within a fixed timescale. They are undertaken to create unique products and services. They usually contain a great deal of risk, uncertainty, and complexity that needs to be managed.

There are a series of project management approaches and tools to help organizations and governments reduce these risks, and create an effective platform to deliver project objectives. These approaches have been carefully documented over the years and they can be learnt. Training in project management, especially one with a practical approach, can help participants gain the necessary knowledge and skills to appropriately utilize the project management tools and techniques to ensure success on their projects.

Our project management courses are in depth, practical and insightful. Our subject matter experts utilize relevant international and local case studies and scenarios to provide the highest quality learning experience available. Our consultants are dedicated to providing participants and organisations with the most useful and up-to-date information for the greatest return on their training investment. Our process is designed to meet all of the client's learning objectives.

Our project management courses are two pronged. They help your team acquire skills that they can immediately deploy to their projects while preparing them for internationally accredited and recognized certification exams.

We are also able to provide qualified manpower for your projects across a broad range of subject matter areas.
